

Clarification Statement

Alfort Petroleum has become aware of a news article published by Club K titled “Nepotism in the Shadow of Sonangol,” which incorrectly refers to our Managing Director, Eng.º Gianni Gaspar Martins, falsely alleging that Sonangol financed Alfort Petroleum.

In this regard, we wish to clarify the following:

1. Alfort Petroleum is an Angolan-registered company, established in accordance with Angolan law, with capital entirely of foreign origin, sourced from the United States of America.
2. There is no financing from Sonangol to Alfort Petroleum. The content of the published article is entirely false.
3. The reference cited by Club K was improperly extracted from an interview given by our Managing Director to the international magazine The Energy Year, in which Alfort Petroleum expressed its intention to invest approximately 35 million US dollars in exploration projects in Angola.
4. We regret the publication of incorrect and unfounded information, which does not contribute to transparency or to the development of the national oil sector.

Alfort Petroleum reaffirms its commitment to legality, business ethics, and sustainable investment in Angola, aligned with international best practices and the current national legal framework.
